AI Regulation: Which are specific compliance requirements relating to high-risk AI systems? Tick all the correct answer.

They must provide „instructions for use“ (in particular regarding capabilities, characteristics, performance limits, information on the interpretation of the result).

They must be openly released under a public domain license to ensure full transparency of their source code.

They are required to keep comprehensive technical documentation that demonstrates the AI system's compliance with the Regulation (e.g. on data sets, development processes, and performance metrics).

They must establish and maintain a risk management system that spans the AI system's lifecycle, essentially identifying and assessing risks and taking risk management measures.

GDPR: Which of the following statements about the Data Protection Officer (DPO) are true? Tick all the correct answer.

The DPO provides advice as regards the data protection impact assessment.

The DPO only reports to his next supervisor, but never to the highest management.

The DPO is independent from any orders from the management in connection with his duties.

The designation of a DPO is mandatory if the core activities of the controller or the processor consist of processing operations which, by virtue of their nature, their scope and/or their purposes, require regular and systematic monitoring of data subjects on a large scale.

AI Regulation: Which statement of a General Purpose Risk AI Model is true? Tick the correct answer.

Once a GPAI is placed on the market (e.g., published in a library or via an API), it is never subject to further compliance requirements—even if it evolves into a more complex version.

GPAI are treated exactly the same as AI Systems with limited risks, meaning they share all the same obligations without distinction.

GPAI that are powerful or widespread AI systems, e.g. GPAI, which have been trained with a total computing power of more than 10^25 FLOPs, are considered GPAI that pose systemic risks. Additional compliance obligations for providers apply.

Unlike AI systems, providers of a GPAI do not need to make available any documentation.

GDPR: BrightMinds LLC, headquartered in Spain, has developed a popular AI-driven web service provided on a subscription basis. Instead of using its own servers, BrightMinds relies on those operated by CloudLink Ltd, located in Poland, to store the data required for its service. When users access BrightMinds' web platform, it automatically loads an additional plugin from GlobalMedia Inc, a company established in Vietnam—thus transmitting visitors’ IP addresses to servers in Vietnam. Based on this scenario, which of the following statements are true? Tick all the correct answers.

Because Poland is treated as a third country, transferring data there constitutes a data export.

BrightMinds LLC can be considered the controller, while CloudLink Ltd acts as the processor.

Given that Vietnam is regarded as a third country, sending user IP addresses to Vietnam qualifies as a data export.

Since BrightMinds LLC and CloudLink Ltd are both located in the EU, no Article 28 GDPR data processing agreement is necessary.

AI Regulation: Which statements about deepfakes are true under the European AI Act? Tick all the correct answers.

Under no circumstances can individuals or organizations be held liable if they disseminate unlabeled deepfake content to the public.

There is no requirement in the draft AI Regulation to inform users that they are interacting with synthetic content.

The regulation places specific obligations on developers of AI systems that generate or manipulate images, audio, or video in a way that can deceive or mislead individuals.

Under the AI Act, providers of deepfake technology must ensure transparency by clearly disclosing that the content is artificially generated, subject to certain exceptions (e.g. law enforcement).
